

Specialist technical recruitment and consultancy services

With an exceptional track record in engineering-led product development, we are perfectly placed to help you recruit the best designers, analysts, engineers, project managers and administrators for your business.

Our award-winning Recruitment and Consultancy Division is proven to match the right candidates to the right opportunities inside the right businesses, and is closely aligned with our UK engineering arm.

Our teams are qualified to Recruitment & Employment Confederation standard. That's why clients ranging from SMEs to global multi-nationals trust us to source the right people for permanent and contract vacancies within engineering, technical, commercial and administrative functions and across a variety of market sectors – regardless of project size, scope or complexity.

We support clients within Automotive, Aerospace, Renewable Energy, Marine and Construction industries.

- Global recruitment reach and localised service that's backed by an impeccable engineering and product development pedigree
- Skilled candidate screening, short listing and selection services that save you time and money
- Specialist re-location management that puts the people you need, where they're needed – cost-effectively, efficiently and quickly
- Instant skills support for short-term, short-notice assignments via our in-house technical teams
- End-to-end vendor agreement, contract, HR and payroll services that lower your internal overheads and optimise the deployment of the people you need
- Simple and clear pricing structures so you can manage your HR budgets predictably
- A reputation that attracts high quality candidates with the relevant skills and experience, ensuring an available talent pool that is second to none in the industry
